Faris Shafi and Talal Qureshi in a still from the latest release, ‘Vitamin D’, ne misconception trailing Ms. Marvel is how Talal Qureshi and Naseebo Lal got together for ‘Aag’ recently whereas the song is an independent effort that released somewhere in 2018. This means that among the independent artists whose music got picked up by the Disney+ series, Talal Qureshi was front and center. Then there’s the Coke Studio 14 song, the addictive ‘Peech-hay Futu’ with Hasan Raheem and Justin Bibis that also made it to the Marvel Cinematic Universe (MCU) that is behind Ms. Marvel, the series featuring local actors such as Mehwish Hayat, Samina Ahmed, Nimra Bucha, and Fawad Khan in smaller but recognizable roles. Going back to Talal, while ‘Aag’ made the cut for the Marvel series, Talal Qureshi was collaborating with Hasan Raheem and Natasha Noorani for another addictive song, ‘Faltu Pyar’ that was produced, mixed, and mastered by Talal. The song blew up and netizens couldn’t get enough of it. Talal does appear in the music video but mostly it is Hasan and Natasha who run the show. Not one to rest on accomplishments, Talal Qureshi is not resting on his laurels after landing back-to-back smash hits in the music circle. He got together with Faris Shafi for ‘Hum’ though he doesn’t appear in the music video of the song that feels like a conversation between Faris and his (late) father. Talal is credited for the music of the track. And just when you thought ‘can he deliver more?’, Talal got together with Faris Shafi for the latter’s single, ‘Vitamin D’. Faris Shafi’s rap - including cadence, confidence, vulnerability, and narrative - requires a story of its own, but if you look at Talal Qureshi’s career graph, it is reaching greater heights and the way he is operating, chances are that he will reach his goals while becoming a part of the musical repertoire of different artists. Talal Qureshi is on a collaboration spree, working with the likes of Naseebo Lal, Hasan Raheem, Natasha Noorani longtime collaborator Faris Shafi.About five years ago, Talal Qureshi’s work slipped under the radar with songs like ‘Lollipop’, ‘Clubbing in Multan’ featuring Mooroo’s Music, and a thrilling ‘Kameez Teri Kaal’ remix of the original by Attaullah Khan Esakhelvi. As a music producer, Talal has refused labels beyond context and can do anything from lo-fi to trap without glorifying himself within the context of any song. Let us not forget the Mad Decent Block Party in Islamabad where Adil Omar and Talal Qureshi played a stronger set than Major Lazer. They also curated artists for the show, including names like Lyari Underground and Shamooin Ismail, both enjoying decent popularity now. It is almost as if Talal Qureshi is not concerned with what sells and what doesn’t and has taken electronic, trap, and synth pop and meshed it all together to make any artist feel comfortable to work with him. At present, Talal is clearly among the most prominent and prolific music producers. Given the many releases this year, what remains to be seen is if he will drop a new solo, cohesive EP or continue to work with a range of artists while flipping the sonic landscape just enough that it fits the narrative of a song, each time. – Talal Qureshi photo by Anooish Zeerik Pakistani computer prodigy Arfa Karimعرفا کریمArfa Karim at the Microsoft headquarters in Redmond, Washington, U.S. (c. 2005)BornArfa Abdul Karim Randhawa1995-02-022 February 1995Faisalabad, PakistanDied14 January 2012(2012-01-14) (aged 16)Combined Military Hospital Lahore, PakistanCause of deathCardiac arrest, Epileptic SeizureResting placeChak No. 4JB, Ram Diwali, FaisalabadNationalityPakistaniAlma materLahore Grammar SchoolOccupationStudentYears active1995–2012Known forWorld’s youngest Microsoft Certified Professional, 2004–2008[1][2]Awards Salaam Pakistan Youth Award (2005) Fatima Jinnah Gold Medal (2005) Presidential Pride of Performance (2005) Arfa Abdul Karim Randhawa (Punjabi: عرفا کریم رندھاوا; 2 February 1995 – 14 January 2012) was a Pakistani student and computer prodigy who became the youngest Microsoft Certified Professional (MCP) in 2004. She was submitted to the Guinness Book of World Records for her achieveeme Arfa kept the title until 2008 and went on to represent Pakistan on various international forums, including the TechEd Developers Conference. She received Pakistan's highest literary award, the Presidential Pride of Performance from General Pervez Musharraf in 2005. A science park in Lahore, the Arfa Software Technology Park, is named in her honour.[4][5][6][7] At the age of 10, Arfa was invited by Bill Gates to visit Microsoft's headquarters in the United States.[8] She died on 14 January 2012, aged 16, from a cardiac arrest. Biography Early life Randhawa was born into an ethnic Punjabi Jat family from Ram Diwali in Faisalabad District, Punjab, Pakistan.[citation needed] Career After returning to Pakistan from a visit to the Microsoft headquarters, Randhawa gave numerous television and newspaper interviews. S. Somasegar, the vice president of Microsoft's Software Development Division, wrote about her in his blog.[7] On 2 August 2005, Arfa was presented the Fatimah Jinnah Gold Medal in the field of Science and Technology by the prime minister of Pakistan Shaukat Aziz at the 113th anniversary of Fatima Jinnah's birth.[9] She also received the Salaam Pakistan Youth Award in August 2005 from the president of Pakistan.[10] Randhawa received the President's Award for Pride of Performance in 2005.[11] a civil award usually granted to people who have shown excellence in their respective fields over a long period of time; she is the youngest recipient of this award. She was made brand ambassador for Pakistan Telecommunication Company's 3G Wireless Broadband service, "EVO", in January 2010.[12] Recognition Upon her return from the US, Randhawa became an icon in Pakistan.[13] She was interviewed by various channels, invited to several international conferences and summits, and received awards from the president and prime minister of Pakistan.[14] In 2006, Microsoft invited her to be the keynote speaker at the Tech-Ed developers conference held in Barcelona.[11] Representation at international forums Randhawa represented Pakistan on various international forums and was invited by the Pakistan Information Technology Professionals Forum for a two-week stay in Dubai, where a dinner reception was hosted in her honour; Dubai dignitaries, including the Ambassador of Pakistan, attended. She was presented with various awards and gifts, including a laptop.[15] In November 2006, Randhawa attended the Tech-Ed Developers conference themed Get Ahead of The Game held in after receiving an invitation from Microsoft.[11] She was the only Pakistani among over 5000 developers in that conference.[16] Death In 2011, Randhawa was studying at the Lahore Grammar School Paragon Campus in her second year of A-levels. On 22 December 2011, she had a cardiac arrest after an epileptic seizure that damaged her brain and was admitted to Lahore's Combined Military Hospital (CMH) in critical condition.[6] On 9 January 2012, Bill Gates, chairman of Microsoft, contacted Randhawa's parents and directed her doctors to adopt "every kind of measure" for her treatment. Gates set up a special panel of international doctors who remained in contact with her local doctors through teleconference. The panel assisted in diagnosing and treating her illness.[17] Local doctors dismissed the option of moving Randhawa to another hospital due to her being on a ventilator and in critical condition. Members of her family have lauded Bill Gates for offering to bear her treatment expenses.[18] Randhawa began to improve on 13 January 2012, and some areas of her brain began to show indications of healing. Microsoft had discussed flying her to the United States for treatment, according to her father, Amjad Abdul Karim Randhawa.[19] Randhawa died at a hospital in Lahore on 14 January 2012, aged 16. Her funeral, which was held on the following day, was attended by the Chief Minister of Punjab, Shahbaz Sharif. She was buried in her ancestral village Chak No. 4JB Ram Diwali, on Faisalabad-Sargodha Road Faisalabad.[20] Arfa Software Technology Park Arfa Software Technology Park is the country's largest Information and Communications Technology Park located in Lahore.[21] The seventeen-storey building is the first international standard facility in Pakistan.[21] The project started under the name "Lahore Technology Park" before being renamed "Arfa Software Technology Park" on 15 January 2012 by Sharif.[21] See also Pakistan portal Biography portal Muhammad Huzair Awan References ↑ "Geo.tv: Latest News Breaking Pakistan, World, Live Videos". geo.tv.
